This week!!

Wow what a busy first week back. It has been lovely getting back together as a class!

In Math's, we have been learning about place value and the value of different numbers. We started our new class book in English, Paddington. It is going to be a fun English topic, as we explore the book and the movies.

On Thursday, we visited the Roman museum in Ribchester. It was a fabulous visit, the children got to try on costumes and look at real Roman artefacts. I will share the fantastic photographs with you! The children behaved beautifully and were a credit to the class. The guide at the museum was very impressed with them!

In science, we are exploring the human skeleton and why it is important to have a balanced diet. Did you know there are 206 bones in the human body? Ask your child facts about skeletons this week!

They love it!
Have a lovely weekend
